About: My name is Saša Janićijević. I'm dealing with programming and web designing. I'm very creative and responsible person. I have a true sense of design and very good logic which is acceptable for different kinds of users. Before programming I have been doing various jobs, from organizing and running a business in catering to solving very complex hardware and software problems in the world of computers. It helped me to create work habits, and get to know different layers of society. It helped me to design designs for different target groups.
